

Next Metrology Software s.r.o. is a software company working on a cutting-edge touch based measuring software for 3D measuring systems.

NMS consists of a team of metrology software application developers who have extensive experience in 3D metrology, emerging media and touch technology. The company is part of the Perceptron group. Perceptron supplies a comprehensive range of automated industrial metrology products and solutions to manufacturing organizations for dimensional gauging, dimensional inspection and 3D scanning.

We are currently looking for a dedicated

Software Engineer / WPF / C# / Graphic User Interface GUI (m/f)

Job Responsibilities:

- To design and implement a graphic user interface.
- To develop new software features.
- To implement various GUIs and graphical libraries.
- To create requirements and design specifications for SW enhancements, implement change requests for enhancement and bug fixes.
- To maintain existing software.
- Cooperate with other programmers.
- SW development using Agile methodology
- Communicate with our international team about feature requests and bug fixes in English language.

Personal Profile:

- Ability to work with existing C# / C++ code is essential.
- Experience with WPF, C#, Inscap, C++ is an advantage.
- Willing to learn new technologies.
- English on communicative level.

NMS offers:

- Challenging and multi-faceted field of activities
- Competitive Salary
- Full time employment
- Working with the state-of-the-art technology.

Have we sparked your interest? If so, we are looking forward to your application in English language: jobs@perceptron.de

Next Metrology Software s.r.o. | Kloboučnická 1435/24, Praha 4, 140 00, Czech Republic